“Where Did She Come From? The Empty Ancestry of Edna May.” -

by Robert J. Brown, BIFHSGO member, lecturer, and publisher of books on his family's ancestry.

- He reveals how he discovered his mother-in-law's unknown links to the British Home and Middlemore children.
- His research of Edna May (1906-94) led him back to early 1800 Nova Scotia and to 1837 English records.

Robert Brown retired in 2002, following a federal government career in information technology security, and after teaching post-secondary bio-sciences and computers. He is currently gathering more information for future books on his family's ancestry.

An article on his 10 December 2006 Free Talks presentation appears in the Winter 2007 issue of BIFHSGO's Anglo-Celtic Roots.

9:30-10:00 am
