

Lynn Palermo is a genealogy professional, author, research coach and The Armchair Genealogist blogger. She provides family historians practical guidance in researching and writing their family history, and helps them shape their genealogy into sharable stories through her webinars, workshops, workbooks and one-on-one coaching. The author of her own family history book, The Waters of My Ancestors, Lynn believes stories are the definitive tool to closing the gap between our families and their history.
